

Justice and Inequality: Comparative Cultural Studies

Master of Arts (M.A.)

Justus-Liebig-Universität Gießen — JLU

Master

- A consecutive interdisciplinary Master's degree programme with a cultural studies focus.
- Programme on a highly relevant subject area which explores the interface between the cultural, social and legal sciences and such thematic areas as peace and conflict research, global health, gender studies and development research as well as sustainable development.
- Addresses North-South asymmetries and discusses postcolonial perspectives.
- It is taught entirely in Spanish on campus (some online sessions are possible) and has an international profile.

SDG 10

- Reduced Inequalities aims to reduce income inequality and disparities based on age, sex, disability, race, ethnicity, religion, or economic status within and among countries by 2030.
- Most of the students in the Master's program are women.
- It has a strong focus on developing Latin American countries.
- Students are assigned a tutor, taking cultural differences into account.
- The semester, in addition to being more affordable than in most Latin American countries, also offers facilities that promote inclusion, such as the Deutschlandticket, Nextbike, and tickets for cultural activities.
