CURRICULUM

In Bachelor, Master and some State Examination programs, classes are offered as part of modules

- Modules bundle together classes sharing a thematic and/or methodological approach.
- Modules usually consist of two or three different classes.
- Module contents, kinds of examinations and learning goals are codified.

International students studying an entire program at Justus Liebig University must pay attention to module structures in order to successfully complete their studies.

CURRICULUM

- For each class, there is a pre-defined workload. The workload for a class is the sum of the hours of work spent for the respective class. It includes class participation and preparations for classes and examinations.
- 30 hours of work = 1 CP / ECTS point
- Credit points thus measure the quantitative workload students must spend for their classes.
- Additionally, for a successfully completed class, you will be awarded grades, which measure the qualitative success of a class.

INFORMATION ON DATES AND TIMES

- Winter Semester : 01.10 - 31.03
- Summer Semester : 01.04 – 30.09
- Re-registration every semester
- 10 am c.t. ☾ 10:15 am
- 10 am s.t. ☾ 10:00 am
- Lectures and seminars at Justus Liebig University usually start c.t., which is why this is often not explicitly stated.

A detailed video on this topic can also be found on the OWIS-Website.

LECTURES & SEMINARS

- In a lecture (Vorlesung), the lecturer delivers information the students need to know. Several hundred students often sit in the lecture hall at the same time or attend the lecture as an online event. Students are not expected to participate orally.
- A seminar (Seminar), on the other hand, is discussion-oriented and takes place in a smaller setting with a maximum of about 50 students. In this type of course, students are expected to actively participate in the discussion.

TUTORIALS & EXAMS

- To deepen understanding and apply the material, tutorials (Übungen) are offered.
- After you have found the desired courses in the electronic course catalog (eVV), register for your exams (MAP, etc.) via Stud.IP and/or FlexNow. You will be informed by your course instructor in good time should there be any changes. Please always observe the registration and de-registration deadlines.

CREATING YOUR TIME-TABLE

- Please refer to your study plan (Studienverlaufsplan – SVP) and module descriptions for the modules/courses you need to take.
- In the electronic course catalog \(eVV\) you will find an overview of the courses currently offered and the corresponding direct link to Stud.IP.
- For some courses you have to register additionally via FlexNow. Please always observe the registration and de-registration deadlines by your faculty.

ACADEMIC EXPECTATIONS

Self-Responsibility and Independence

- The "Leistungsnachweis": Most courses rely on a single final exam or paper at the end of the semester. Continuous homework is rare.
- Scientific Rigor: Plagiarism is taken extremely seriously.
- Active Participation: In seminars, you aren't just a listener. You are expected to contribute to discussions and challenge ideas.

Self-Study (Selbststudium): For every hour spent in a lecture, expect to spend 2–3 hours in the library.

COMMUNICATION WITH PROFESSORS

Professional, Formal, and Direct

- The Golden Rule of Titles:

Always use formal titles in emails.

- Email Etiquette:

Use your university email address.

Be concise and get straight to the point (no long "hope you are well" intros).

Include your matriculation number and the specific course name.

COMMUNICATION WITH PROFESSORS

- Office Hours (Sprechstunden): Check the faculty website to see if you need to book a slot via a sign-up sheet or online tool.
- Feedback: Feedback is often direct. If you receive a critique, don't take it personally.

PRACTICAL INSIGHTS

- The Paperwork "Paper Trail"

Germany is still very much a paper-based society. Keep every contract, insurance document, and university certificate. You will need original hard copies for almost every administrative appointment (Behördengänge).

- Postal Mail: Important official news (from the bank, the city, or the university) will come via physical mail, not email. Check your mailbox daily!

PRACTICAL INSIGHTS

- The Quiet Rule: Avoid loud housework (drilling, vacuuming) or loud music on Sundays; it is legally protected "quiet time."
- Sunday is "Ruhetag" (Rest Day)
- Almost all supermarkets, shops, and pharmacies are closed on Sundays.
- Plan Ahead: Do your grocery shopping by Saturday evening. Only shops in major train stations or gas stations remain open.

PRACTICAL INSIGHTS

- Cash is (Still) King

"Nur Barzahlung": You will frequently see signs saying "Cash only" in bakeries, small cafes, and traditional restaurants.

The "Girocard": Many places that take cards only accept the local German Girocard (EC-Karte), not international Visa or Mastercards.

Always carry at least €20 in cash.

Quick "Cultural Hacks"

Punctuality: 5 minutes early is on time. Late is unacceptable.

Pfand (Bottle Deposit): Never throw away plastic bottles or glass bottles.

(Most supermarkets have automatic machines that scan your bottles and give you a receipt. You can use this receipt to get cash at the checkout or reduce your shopping bill.)

Quick "Cultural Hacks"

Waste Sorting: Germans are world champions at recycling. There are usually four different bins (Paper, Plastic/Metal, Bio, and Rest).

Accommodation

JLU students can apply for a place in a hall of residence through the Studierendenwerk Giessen. It is recommended that you apply early and search the private housing market at the same time, as places are limited. Information on rental contracts, shared flats, halls of residence and rental costs can be found here on the website: Where to Live in Giessen – JLU

Administrative procedures

International students should complete important administrative procedures before and after their arrival, such as registering with the city office, contacting the Immigration Authorities, or applying for health insurance. Further information can be found here: Necessary Visits to the Authorities Before and After Arrival – JLU

Admission

Admission will be granted once your application documents have been reviewed and all admission requirements have been met. If you have any questions about the application and admission process for international students, please contact: international.admission@uni-giessen.de

Admission requirements

To study at JLU, students need to provide certain documents, such as a recognised school-leaving certificate, proof of language skills, and, if required, subject-specific qualifications. The subject-specific requirements can be found on the website of the respective degree programme under the "Application" tab. For questions, please contact: international.admission@uni-giessen.de

Application
