For all modules, course participation as an examination requirement is regulated as follows:

- (1) Admission to the module examination is subject to full participation in all planned and conducted course sessions for one semester. This regulation does not include lectures.
- (2) Failure to attend up to two sessions does not affect the right to be admitted to take an examination.
- (3) If more than two and up to half of the planned and conducted sessions for a semester are missed, compensatory performance must be rendered for each additionally missed session to maintain eligibility to take the examination. The instructor determines the type and extent of compensatory performance.
- (4) Admission to examinations before the end of period in which the course takes place in a semester are always subject to the provisions of paragraphs 1-3.
