

Academic Writing Lab (AfK-Nr. 624)

All participants of this class will need to bring a current writing project in English (term paper, final thesis, etc.). +++ Please enroll for this course until August 23 via E-Mail to: Regina.L.Schmidt@zfbk.uni-giessen.de +++

Dozent/-in: Regina Leonie Schmidt

Zeit und Ort:

5 Einzeltermine:

Mo. 02.09.2019, 09.00 - 16.00 Uhr Karl-Glöckner-Str. 5A, R.115 (ZfbK)

Di. 03.09.2019, 09.00 - 16.00 Uhr Karl-Glöckner-Str. 5A, R.115 (ZfbK)

Mi. 04.09.2019, 09.00 - 16.00 Uhr Karl-Glöckner-Str. 5A, R.115 (ZfbK)

Do. 05.09.2019, 14.00 - 18.00 Uhr Karl-Glöckner-Str. 5A, R. 115 (ZfbK)

Fr. 06.09.2019, 09.00 - 13.00 Uhr Karl-Glöckner-Str. 5A, R.115 (ZfbK)

Kommentar:

The Academic Writing Lab is designed to support students from all disciplines who have to hand in a term paper, final thesis, or other writing assignments in English during the semester break. One half of the course will be mandatory for the participants (Monday – Wednesday, 9 – 13) and organized seminar-style. It will be devoted to you learning about and reflecting on academic writing as well as practicing what you have learned via small writing assignments. During the other half of the course you will have the chance to work on your own writing assignments independently. This part of the course (Monday – Wednesday 14 – 16 + Thursday – Friday) will be optional for the participants. By attending this course, you will not only be able to profit from the course input on and practice of academic writing but also be able to consult with the course instructor and peers on your current writing assignment.

Participants of this course should...

... bring their own writing assignment(s) (i.e. term papers, final theses etc.) to work on as well as any material needed to do so (books, journal articles, USB-sticks etc.).

... be prepared to write with other people being in the same room (you may want to bring headphones, earplugs etc. if you are easily distracted).

... be willing to work on their own texts in a focused manner.

... be open to receiving feedback on their writing.

Kindly note that this course will be conducted in English (participants should have level B1+ or equivalent in English).

Participants will receive a pass/fail, 1 CP is awarded for the successful completion of the mandatory part of this course.